EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Our most current three-year strategic plan ended in June 2016. In order to comply with Texas State Library and Archives System guidelines, the plan must be reviewed and updated at least every five years.

We began gathering input from the community in the spring of 2016. We asked our stakeholder groups to complete a series of questions inspired by the Harwood Institute's Turning Outward approach, a method of engaging people in community values discussions. Additionally, from March through May 2016, we encouraged participation in a general library services survey. Staff attended several large community events to gather surveys and also handed out surveys to library program participants. In the end, we gathered 410 surveys. More than 40% of these survey participants lived inside the city limits, 34.4% lived in the county and approximately 25% lived outside the county. A staff committee then convened several times to analyze the survey data as well as local and national library data and current studies.

By doing so staff determined library values and priorities. Our values, based on responses to the Harwood Institute questions, center around inclusiveness, responsiveness and respect. Our discussions revealed the overall theme of belonging; that the library plays a key role in creating an environment for connection. Two of our service priorities remain the same: reading, viewing and listening for pleasure and lifelong learning. The other important priority is providing a quiet, comfortable space. The survey revealed laudatory remarks on library staff, programs, collections and facilities; however the most prevalent concern was the noise and level of activity at certain times of the day. This plan update seeks to address this deficiency by reconfiguring spaces in the library.

Staff will continue to emphasize organizational competencies from the previous plan particularly partnerships, training and staff development, and marketing.

As indicated in the previous plan, this update is based on the assumption that funding will not significantly increase or decrease during the plan years: 2016-2019. If new costs are incurred to meet the goals of this plan, it is assumed that a) costs elsewhere in the operating budget may be reduced; that b) fundraising will cover the costs; or that c) cost-free alternatives will be utilized to accomplish the goals.

We are encouraged by the responses we heard from the community and feel confident that we can continue to provide the excellent customer service, programs, resources and staff that they have come to expect.

BE INSPIRED

OUR GOAL is to inspire people of all ages to read, view and listen for pleasure.
